
Separate input/cache test families. Score differences do not establish causal processing gain.